Staffing
Raelene Aleandro has begun Long Service Leave and her class is being taken by Jo Dalton. Maria Pase will begin Long Service Leave on July 18th the first day of Term 2 and she will return on 30th of August. Sarah John will take Maria’s class during that time.

Learning and Teaching:
The units of work for Term 2 are:
- P-2- What does it take to make?
- 3/4- How do we change as we grow?
- 5/6- Why earth?

Reports will go home on June 24th and our Partnership Meetings will be held on Thursday, June 30th between 3.45 – 7.00pm and Friday, July 1st between 8.30am – 2.00pm. July 1st is pupil free day. OSHC is waiting to see how many definite bookings they have for the day to see if running a program on July 1st is viable. They would need about 15 children to cover costs.

Sharon Foley our Performing Arts teacher has had the unfortunate news that the person booked for our Performing Arts Artist In Residence project is unable to undertake the work due to personal circumstances. Sharon has pursued other options but they have either been unavailable for the time needed or not suitable. Time is now running out to get anything organised for Term 3. Term 4 is not an option with the Art Show and Fair. Sharon and I are in regular contact and are discussing the possibilities.

Special Items/Events:
The Whitehorse and Maroondah Network Conference was attended by the whole leadership team on May 25 – 27. The conference was titled ‘What Expert Leaders Do in a Globalised World’. Speakers included:

- Andrew Mahar, the driving force behind the social enterprise Infoxchange Australia, which bridges information technology and the needs of the disadvantaged
- Martine Harkin from Leading Teams, an organisation that helps improve performance by aligning teams and developing leaders
- Cecilie Murray, the Director of Delphinian eLearning and is an Australian leader in the use of ICT in education, well-known for her work in eLearning using emerging technologies, on-line teaching and digital content development
- Mark Treadwell, a lecturer who provides teacher seminars and workshops. Mark is on the New Zealand, Ministry of Education Curriculum Review Group
- Tracey Ezard, a facilitator and consultant specialising in leadership and team development. She guides organisations through critical times of change
Following keynote addresses, a number of workshops allowed for further exploration of ideas presented. It was a most worthwhile conference for all who attended.

BER Building Project
Handover was held about a week ago although there are still a number of things that need to be completed. The operable wall, the backboards and the security have not yet been fully installed. The security should be finished this week. The shelving and cupboards have yet to be installed in the store rooms and we are still waiting for the gas to be fitted off to provide heat. The landscaping should be undertaken next week. Chris is waiting for specified timber, that is being used to create edging and seats along the side that faces the current synthetic grass area, to be delivered.

Tim Fearn-Wannan has started to take his classes in the gym and the children have been very excited. Today when I was in the gym, Tim had a class doing rotational activities and was using the very impressive sound system operating while the children completed each activity. It was fantastic to watch.
